Dear [Name],

Thank you for your email of 25 March 2013 in which you requested the following information relating to arms exports.

- I would like to request a list of the names of all companies that applied for licences for the export of equipment with Military List ratings during 2011. Please list the information by destination country and, within that, by ML rating. Please provide the data in a machine readable form (not a scanned copy), as was provided in response to my 12-1521 internal review request.

Under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (‘the Act’), you have the right to:

- know whether we hold the information you require
- be provided with that information (subject to any exemptions under the Act which may apply).

I am writing to advise you that, following a search of our paper and electronic records, I have established that the information you requested is held by this Department.

The information you have requested is attached at Annex A.

Please note that although you have asked for the information to be listed by destination country and have referred to the format of the information released to you in response to your recent internal review ref. IR/12/1521, we have been unable to provide the information separated individually by destination country in response to this request. This is because, although licensing information is extracted from the export licensing database, SPIRE, it can only be extracted according to a limited number of search criteria. Consequently, to provide you with the information you have requested (particularly as you have asked for information relating to a 12 month period) broken down separately by country destination would have required us to create new information based on the information we hold e.g. we would need to manually extract information from the spreadsheet relating to each individual destination and transfer this data to additional Excel worksheets. This, in addition to the work that has already been undertaken in respect of your request, would have taken us over the cost limit as prescribed in section 12 (disproportionate costs) of the FoIA.

However, automatic filters have been added to the spreadsheet that is being released to you and you can use these to filter the information by destination which will also include all the other information released (by Goods Rating, Application Type, Outcome, Goods ARS, and Case Closed Reason).

The names of companies who applied for licences to export equipment with Military List ratings in 2011 are also included in Annex A in alphabetical order. These are listed in a separate worksheet and not alongside the licence entries and, to the extent that your request is for release of company names linked to the licence data, this information is exempt from disclosure in this format by virtue of sections 41(1) and 43(2) of the FoIA for the reasons given further down in this response. If your request is not for release of this information in this format (this aspect is a little unclear), please disregard the paragraphs relating to these FoIA exemptions.

Some licence applications were submitted by private individuals. To the extent that your request is for information about ‘companies’ only, information about these applications has not been included.

Notes about the spreadsheet:

Rows highlighted in yellow refer to applications that were ‘Stopped’, ‘Withdrawn’ or assessed as ‘Unsuitable’ (where an OIEL application is stopped because it has been concluded that an OIEL is unsuitable for the business activity described). Rows highlighted in green refer to applications that are still ‘live’ in the system whereby the applicant is still awaiting a decision from ECO.
Finally, rows highlighted in dark yellow denote those applications that subsequently had an amendment to the rating/goods description (only applies to two OIELs).

In order to view all the information relating to a licence entry, you will need to either a) expand some of the column widths or b) set ‘wrap text’ applicable to the entire spreadsheet or particular entries that you are viewing individually.

Sections 41(1) and 43(2) of the FoIA (please ignore if your request is not for release of company names alongside the licence data).

Information about these export licences in the format requested (e.g. which company or companies were granted export licences for export of what types of equipment during this period) is exempt from disclosure by virtue of section 41 (information provided in confidence) and section 43 (commercial interests) of the FoIA. An explanation of how these exemptions apply to this information (and the information redacted from the information released to you) follows:

Section 41(1) applies to information provided to the Department in confidence and, as a duty of confidence exists, there is a strong public interest in protecting that confidence and there are no public interest considerations in relation to this information requiring us to set the duty of confidentiality aside.
Section 43(2) applies because disclosure of the information requested (e.g. company names related to the licence data) would be likely to prejudice the commercial interests of the company or companies who have applied for export licences. Export licence applications and the documents associated with them contain commercially sensitive information about proposed exports (including, in particular, sensitive information about the applicant, the exporter’s customers and the value of goods to be exported) that could be of use to competitors. Disclosure of this information would reveal details of the markets that companies are operating in and possibly details of commercial opportunities that are still available (to non-UK exporters in the case of UK refusals and in respect of those applications that are yet to be completed).

We have considered the public interest arguments for and against disclosure. Whilst we recognise that there is a general public interests in the disclosure of this information to enable public scrutiny of UK activity, particularly in respect of destinations where regional tensions have arisen or increased, as greater transparency makes Government more accountable, we do consider that against this there is a public interest in ensuring that the commercial interests of external businesses are not damaged or undermined by disclosure of information which is not public knowledge and which could adversely impact on future business.

In addition, by releasing such information, the confidence our customers have in us may be damaged, making them reluctant to provide us with commercially sensitive information in the future. In this case, we consider that the public interest in favour of disclosing such information is outweighed by the necessity to protect the commercial interests of third parties.

Furthermore, we consider that general public interest arguments about the disclosure of what we licence and what we do not are answered by the general disclosure made by the Departments in the publication of the Annual and Quarterly Reports on Strategic Export Controls. These reports contain detailed information on export licences issued, refused or revoked, by destination, including the overall value, type (e.g. Military, Other) and a summary of the items covered by these licences. They are available to view on the Strategic Export Controls: Reports and Statistics website at https://www.exportcontroldb.bis.gov.uk

Finally, the work of the Department in this area is scrutinised by the Committees on Arms Export Controls (the members are drawn from four different Select Committees) and we are able to provide them, in confidence, with additional details in particular cases of concern. We think that any additional public interest in disclosing to the public at large which companies have sought to supply what items to what overseas destinations is slight. The risk of prejudice to the companies involved outweighs such public interest because the damage that could be caused to exporters’ business is potentially grave.

If you are not content with the result of your request for information, you may request an internal review within two calendar months of the date of this letter. If you wish to request an internal review please contact me.
If you are not content with the outcome of the internal review, you have the right to apply directly to the Information Commissioner for a decision. The Information Commissioner can be contacted at: Information Commissioner's Office, Wycliffe House, Water Lane, Wilmslow, Cheshire, SK9 5AF

Please remember to quote the reference number above in any future communications.

Yours Sincerely

Head of Policy Unit, Export Control Organisation
